		eLearning Africa addresses the whole of Africa. A rotating event hosted by a different African government every year, it supports and reinforces the growing pan-African eLearning community. Through its Open Call for Papers, resulting in the engagement of a widely distributed international community of experts, industry partnerships, governments, initiatives on the ground, and the development partner community, a solid capacity-development framework has been established. For further information, please visit: http://www.elearning-africa.com/
...JUNE
2-6 June 2008	Valencia, Spain	ENERGY - BIOMASS EC Conference "GREEN WEEK 2008 - Only one Earth-Don't waste it!" The use of biomass in combination with other forms of renewable energies has gained a new dimension. It is universal in its use, ranging from biofuel for mobile applications to heat and electricity in the stationary sector. Industry is working on many promising technologies for converting biomass into different forms. Pilot plants for gasification, gas cleaning and feed-in into pipelines for natural gas all serve to demonstrate its feasibility. On the other hand, there is still much to be done to increase overall economics, efficiency and reliability and to optimally integrate biomass into current and future supply structures, taking into account fully developed liberalised energy and energy services markets. Special care is also needed to ensure the sustainability of biomass production, especially in the context of international trading, where certification procedures have to be developed and introduced in the near future. Competition in land-use for food production will also have to be handled with great care, especially its consequences for developing countries. The international conference is aimed at stimulating public discussion on all these items and promoting the awareness of the biomass community. Scientists, industry, suppliers, funding bodies and decision-makers are invited to meet the more than 1,500 expected attendees from 80 countries. For further information, please visit: http://www.conference-biomass.com/index.htm
3-6 June 2008	Brussels, Belgium	ENVIRONMENT 16th European Biomass Conference & Exhibition The European Commission is organising this annual event that will take place the week of the World Environment Day. Green Week 2008 will take a closer look at the sustainable use of natural resources, focusing on waste management, sustainable consumption and production. The event will provide a unique opportunity for debate, exchanges of experience and best practice among non-governmental organisations, businesses, various levels of government and the public. Registration for the event begins in April 2008 and will remain open until the start of the Conference. For further information, please visit: http://ec.europa.eu/environment/greenweek/home.html

XIII World Water Congress " Global Changes and Water Resources

The objective of the XIIIth World Water Congress is to enhance the world's knowledge and raise global consciousness of the impact of global changes on water resources. The Congress contributes to the study of our planet's water resources by bringing together wide-interest participation, conferences and communications. This Congress is an important occasion on a global scale for open dialogue between public and private partners, between users and decision makers and between developing, emerging and developed countries. To achieve these objectives, the Congress will organize numerous debates, presentations and exhibitions among key water stakeholders.

The three major fields embraced at the Conference are:

- The intrinsic natural variability
- The impact of human societies
- Current climate change

The Conference's programme, including additional details about the addressed topics, is available at:
